5. TIME LIMITS FOR LODGING CLAIMS

claims shall be lodged at the latest: within 45 days from the declaration of bankruptcy reference to the criteria for calculating that time limit: § 28 zákona č. 7/2005 Z.z.

6. CONSEQUENCES OF FAILURE TO SUBMIT CLAIMS WITHIN THE TIME PERIOD INDICATED IN POINT 5.

- You will have to bear any additional costs associated with late submission
- You will be precluded from participating in distributions (interim or final) occurring before submission (or admission) of your claim.
- You will lose your right to vote in any decision making process or at meetings of creditors occurring before the submission of your claim.
- You will be required to file an individual petition to the court for admission of your claim.
- The debt based on your claim will be regarded as extinguished in the context of the proceedings.
- Your claim may not be taken into account in the proceedings.
- Your secured or preferential rights associated to the claim will be waived.
- Other (please, specify):

If a creditor delivers the claim to the administrator later, the claim shall be taken into account but the creditor may not exercise any voting right or other rights connected with the submitted claim for receivable. The right to proportionate satisfaction of the creditor shall not be affected thereby; however, the creditor may be satisfied only from the proceeds included in the distribution plan from the general assets where the intention to draw up the distribution plan was notified in the commercial Bulletin.

Where a secured receivable is concerned, the security right must also be duly and timely exercised in the claim delivered to the administrator within the basic period for submitting claims that lasts 45 days from the declaration of bankruptcy, otherwise, it shall expire.

A creditor that has a receivable against a party other than the bankrupt shall also enforce their receivable in a claim in the bankruptcy if the receivable is secured with a security right relating to the bankrupt's property. In bankruptcy, such creditor may be satisfied only from the proceeds gained by converting the property that secures their receivable into money, and may exercise voting rights at a creditor's meeting only to the extent to which their receivable will probably be settled from the property by which it is secured.

If such creditor does not submit a claim for their secured receivable within the basic period for submitting claims, their security right shall not be taken into account in the bankruptcy, but they are entitled to recover from the assets concerned any enrichment in relation to such assets in consequence thereof, and such right may be exercised against the affected assets as a receivable against the assets where such receivable shall be settled after all other receivables against the assets have been settled.
